LETCHER CONSOLIDATED SCHOOL
D. E. PERKINS—ARCHITECT & ENGINEER

New school will look like this Architect D. E. Perkins of Harlan visualizes the new Letcher Consolidated School this way. The school, to be built at Jeremiah, will have 24 classrooms, a library and a lunchroom. The high school will be in the wing to the right (above) and the grade school will be in the wing to the left. The cafeteria will be on the grade-school side. The projection in the roof is for a shed to protect pupils entering or leaving school buses. Bids for the building are expected to be ready for advertising soon. Plans for a gymnasium have been included but are not shown in the sketch. The County Board of Education has money enough to build only classroom space now.

Next week: New Fleming-Neon

WHITESBURG PTA MEETS TUESDAY

The Whitesburg Parent-Teacher Association will meet at 3:30 p.m. Tuesday in the Grade School auditorium. The meeting will be the group's first this year.

Officers of the PTA for the coming year are Mrs. S. E. Moncrief, Jr., president; Mrs. Allyn F. Judd, vice president; Mrs. Raymond Smith, secretary, and R. C. Day, treasurer.

Mrs. Judd will serve as program chairman, and Miss Betty Collins will be chairman for the membership drive.

Mrs. Moncrief issued a special invitation to parents of high school students to attend the meeting Tuesday. The Whitesburg PTA represents Whitesburg High School as well as Whitesburg Grade School.

Crosthwaite is colonel

Don F. Crosthwaite, general manager of WTCW radio station, has received the titles of "Kentucky Colonel" and "Duke of Paducah" both during the past week.

He was commissioned "Kentucky Colonel" in Frankfort by Gov. A. B. Chandler because of his "outstanding leadership in civic and community affairs" in this area, by way of radio and personal efforts. Formerly of Paducah, his title of Duke was an award from the city signed by Mayor George G. Jacobs.

Crosthwaite came to Whitesburg in 1954 as general manager and vice president of the Kentucky-Virginia Broadcasting Company. He assumed his present position in 1956.

WELDING CLASS PLANNED

The Letcher County Board of Education, in co-operation with the Area Vocational School, Hazard, Ky., is beginning an evening class in electric arc and oxyacetylene welding at the Whitesburg High School Monday, Sept. 8, 1958.

TO HELP KINDERGARTEN

Sponsors of the new kindergarten being held at Fleming Baptist Church will hold a bake sale Saturday, Sept. 13 in downtown Neon. The money will be used to buy rhythm band instruments.

STEVE VARSON DIES

Steve Varson, 49, of Jenkins, died of a heart attack Wednesday while driving along the highway up the Kentucky River about one mile above Kona. Sheriff Johnny Fulton reports.

Whitesburg council renews tries to annex

The Whitesburg City Council Tuesday night voted unanimously to extend Whitesburg's city limits by annexation.

The new annexation ordinance takes in about the same territory as was included in the city's annexation attempt a few months ago. There are some changes, however.

In general, the proposed new city limits extend toward Ermine to a point just past the junction of US 119 and Ky. 15, and will extend toward Hazard to a point near Marlowe.

Cecil Caudill heads Letcher ASC office

Cecil R. Caudill

Pirates will meet Cumberland Saturday

The Fleming-Neon Pirates, with one victory behind them, will meet Cumberland at the Fleming-Neon ball park Saturday night at 8:30 p.m.

The Pirates defeated their first opponents of the season, M. C. Napier, 26-0 last Saturday.

Cecil Caudill of Whitesburg is the new manager of the Letcher County office of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee.

Caudill took over his duties Aug. 25 after completing 10 weeks of training.

Caudill taught science and mathematics at Fleming-Neon and Whitesburg for the past six years. He served as assistant coach of football and basketball at Fleming-Neon 1952-53 and sponsored Junior Conservation Clubs at both schools. Last year he was voted "most popular teacher of the year" at Whitesburg High School.

Caudill is a graduate of Whitesburg High School and Georgetown College. Before attending college he worked for a time with the Louisville and Nashville Railroad.

He is married to the former Ruby June Adams, daughter of the late G. Bennett Adams and Mrs. Adams, and they have one daughter, Anella June.

Accident fatal to French Martin

French Martin, 32, of Ison, was killed in an unusual truck accident Tuesday.

Martin was sitting in the shade of a tree along side the road, eating a candy bar and waiting for a ride to work when a coal truck driven by Henry Morgan came along. The truck had a blow-out on a front wheel, and went out of control and struck Martin, killing him.

Martin was survived by his wife, Mrs. Helen Johnson Martin, and 10 children. He was the son of the late Earl and Florence Martin. Martin was a native of Knott County, and was an employee of the Bailey Coal Co.

Sheriff Johnny Fulton said no charges were placed against Morgan, the truck driver.

This was the fourth death on Letcher County's highways this year, compared to nine at this time last year.

Chorus to meet

The Choral Club will meet at 7:30 p.m. EST Tuesday at Craft Funeral Home. Mrs. Huston Westover, director, said everyone interested may attend. The group will start work on a concert to be given later. Both men and women may sing with the group.

Lions Club purchases eyeglasses for 17

The Lions Club announced that it has purchased 17 pairs of glasses for underprivileged children in the Whitesburg area.

The project was supervised by the club's sight conservation committee, headed by Paul Vermillion.

In other action, the club donated $20 to the Letcher County civil defense organization, and announced that it has 38 pupils in the club-sponsored kindergarten class, with more expected.

Magistrates receive $1,000 salary checks

Letcher County's eight magistrates each were $1,000 better off today, following adoption of a budget for the county this past Friday.

The magistrates voted unanimously for a budget which provided them with salaries of $200 a month, with back pay to April 1.

Then, they voted unanimously to borrow $30,000 from the Bank of Whitesburg to pay the salaries as well as other debts accumulated by the county.

The money was borrowed on Tuesday of this week, and the checks were issued.

The magistrates adopted the budget following a ruling by Special Circuit Judge Henry D. Stratton, Pikeville, that the salaries legally could be paid so long as the State Court of Appeals has not ruled that the salaries are unconstitutional.

The salaries were authorized by an act of the state legislature last spring, and a test case involving their constitutionality is pending before the Frankfort court.

The budget adopted by the court is similar to that under which county government operated last year—with one major exception. The exception is the county road fund. Money normally appropriated to the road fund was transferred to the general fund for payment of the magistrates' salaries.

Letcher still facing spread of polio

Threat of a polio epidemic in Letcher County increased today, following the outbreak of three cases this week in the Fishpond area at the headwaters of the Kentucky River near Payne Gap.

The three new cases brought to five the number which have occurred in the county within the past three weeks.

County Health Officer Dr. Dow Collins said he viewed the situation as serious, and said parents must make every effort to have their children vaccinated against polio immediately.

Dr. Collins is giving polio shots in his office, and shots also are available from hospitals and private doctors.

Collins said the shot situation is complicated by the fact that the State Health Department no longer is furnishing him with polio vaccine. He said the department notified him Wednesday it has exhausted its vaccine supply, and has no funds with which to purchase more.

The Letcher County polio chapter has used $1,000 of March of Dimes funds to purchase vaccine for use by Collins. However, Chapter Chairman Tom Gish said the local chapter has about used up all its money.

The three latest victims are Carol Lee Williams, 4 years old, and her 22-month old sister, Brenda Williams, and Alma Lee Rose, 3 years old.

The Williams girls are the daughters of Charles and Nora Jane Williams. The Rose child is the daughter of Dewey and Exa Lee Rose.

The Williams and Rose families are neighbors on Bill Moore Branch in the Fishpond area.

All three children are patients at Whitesburg Memorial Hospital. None had been vaccinated against polio.

Following the outbreak of polio in the Fishpond area, Dr. Collins Sunday went into the area and vaccinated 78 persons. He spent the entire day walking up the creeks and hollows, and said he believes he vaccinated everyone who lives in the area except for one family which was out of town.

On Tuesday, Dr. Collins then went to the Kona grade school where he gave additional shots. He said a check of records showed that only two children out of the entire student body at Kona had received three polio shots. Three is considered the minimum number for full and effective protection against polio.

Collins said he had hoped to be able to go out into the county and establish clinics in an effort to vaccinate more people but the shortage of polio vaccine prevents him from doing so.

He said he will continue giving shots at his office as long as his supply lasts. No one appears to know what will happen once the present supply is exhausted.

METHODISTS TO MEET

The Woman's Society of Christian Service of the Methodist Church will meet at 7:30 o'clock tonight at the church.

Teen-agers need breakfast

By Roberts Malcomb
Home Demonstration Agent
Importance of Breakfast
for Teen-agers:

The boy or girl who is headed for high school this fall may need a heartier breakfast than he has been eating. As boys and girls reach adolescence, their nutritional needs are higher than ever before. Boys need more food than at any other age, and girls more than at most other times in their lives.

I would refer to a study made by Dr. Ruth Leverton, associate director of the Institute of Home Economics, USDA, who stated that there is no substitute for a good breakfast, and that it is difficult, if not impossible, for teenagers to make up at other meals, or by between-snacks, the food missed at breakfast.

The survey showed that among junior high school students, only one child in five eat enough of the right foods at other meals to make up for a skimpy breakfast.

Among 17 to 19 year old college girls, those who skipped breakfast cut their daily intake to less than two-thirds of their calcium and vitamin C needs, and to 10 percent of iron and thiamine quotas. Nor was it effective as a reducing plan, for the breakfast skippers were much more likely to eat snacks between meals, which were usually sweets or other high-calorie foods, making the total calories greater than if they had eaten breakfast.

Studies of diets of 15 to 20 year olds in the Northeast states showed that those who ate breakfast were more likely to get the kinds and amounts of food needed than were those who went without, particularly in calcium and vitamin C.

Late TV or other entertainment often leads to late sleeping in the morning, which is no exchange for a good breakfast.

Breakfast is a health investment in which both teen-agers and parents should co-operate.

The Homemakers schedule for next week is as follows:

Tuesday, September 9 at 12:00 the Rockhouse club meets at the home of Mrs. Enoch Sergeant.

Wednesday, Sept. 10, at 7:00 the Mayking club meets at Mrs. Dessie Hunsucker's.

Thursday, Sept. 11, at 10:00 C. T., the Colson club meets at Mrs. Logan Collins' and the Blackey club meets at 6:00 C.T.

Friday, Sept. 12, at 6:00 the Millstone Club meets at the home of Mrs. Frances McCray.

MILLSTONE HOMEMAKERS By Charlotte Newsome, Reporter

Hunting season came in with a bang and so was the homemakers picnic at the home of Maggie Richardson, Aug. 15. About two hours before the picnic we had an awful rain storm, but that didn't stop the delicious food and people from coming in. Those present for the afternoon are as following: Mr. and Mrs. Sylvan Potter, Aunt Jane Craft, Mrs. Robert Potter, Mr. and Mrs. Ervin Hall, Mr. and Mrs. Woodrow Fultz, Mr. and Mrs. Jim Richardson, Mr. and Mrs. Hayden Wilson, Maude West, Mrs. Reecy Caudill and Rua, Mrs. Francis McCray, Mrs. Jack Reynolds, Mrs. Deloris Newsome, Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Tolliver, Mr. and Mrs. Ted Tolliver, Mr. and Mrs. Sherd Martin, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Stamper, Mr. and Mrs. William Newsome, and all the children which made our attendance about fifty. Everyone enjoyed the dinner. After the picnic the ladies retired to the living room and the men planned hunting trips for the weekend.

Our next meeting will be at the home of Mrs. Francis McCray on Friday, Sept. 12 at 6:00.

ASC men checking for payments

By Cecil R. Caudill

Last week's column stated that the sign-up period for the 1959 Soil Bank Program would open about Sept. 15. I would like to inform you that the period is now open and information regarding this program may be found elsewhere in this paper or you may contact your ASC Office.

Spot-checks are being made on farms where practices are being carried out and to avoid any unnecessary misunderstandings farmers are advised to be sure they have completed all the requirements before reporting to the office for payment. Some farmers are being disapproved for cost-sharing because they fail to comply with these requirements. If you cannot complete the practice in the given time you may notify this office and request that the time be extended. This must be done before the expiration date for that particular practice.

The season of Aug. 15 to Sept. 20 is generally considered timely for pasture improvement work involving seeding and application of needed liming and fertilizer materials. Requests should be completed as soon as possible if you are interested in carrying out a pasture improvement practice. Cost-sharing is available under the Agricultural Conservation Program.

Parents of students can help school situation if they want to Recent editorials dealing with conditions in Letcher County's schools have caused several persons to ask us, "What can we do?"

It is not an easy question to answer. There is no trick solution, no magic wand to be waved. But, at least 1,000 parents have children attending the Whitesburg grade and high schools and 1,000 adults working together can do just about anything.

To a very great degree it is the parents themselves that have allowed the present situation to breed and grow over the years. We as parents are inclined to sit around and gripe and gripe about schools—yet not 1 out of 100 has ever taken the time or trouble to attend a meeting of the county school board.

We all are sitting around griping right now. No matter where you go in Whitesburg or Letcher County, the subject of schools comes up almost any time two or more persons talk as long as five minutes together.

Beyond question the Whitesburg schools need a new coat of paint, and need new playground equipment. What can be done to obtain those objectives?

A first step, we believe, would be for parents—not just a few, but many—to show up at the Board of Education meeting Saturday afternoon and demand the improvements. If the board says it doesn't have the money which would be needed, then the board should be required to explain just why this is so, in view of the money set aside in the school budget for maintenance.

Assuming the board shows that the school system itself can't afford a few gallons of paint, what then?

Well, we think 1,000 parents could without great strain on anyone donate the money which would be needed. Further, we believe the parents could organize a painting expedition and in one or two Saturdays, with enough men working, repaint the buildings and make them into something we could walk into without shame.

There is nothing wrong with the men of the community getting together and doing the thing which needs to be done. Such a clean-up, paint-up session could even be fun, especially if our wives could be persuaded to fix a picnic lunch.

Such a project would require organization and planning, and it strikes us that the Whitesburg PTA would be the group to handle the details.

This is but one idea. Others may have other ideas. Our point is that if the parents of the students enrolled at Whitesburg want to improve the situation it is within their power to do so. We do not have to be put off by rudeness or abruptness from school officials.

In my opinion . . .

Educators and parents blamed for school conditions

Demand better schools

To the Editor:

I have read and re-read your editorials of August 28th, and am aroused, as never before, from a defensive apathy which has slowly formed over years of encounters with indifferent parents and school officials, regarding the deterioration of our curriculum and facilities in Whitesburg. Thank you for being brave enough, and intelligent enough, to present in clear focus the true picture of our school, for eyes that have so often seen, and finally turned away in despair.

There are many reasons people hesitate to voice their sentiments regarding their schools' administrations—the most important, of course, is economic pressure, which is very forceful, very direct. Another reason is social displeasure, because really "nice people" do not become involved in such bitterly personal disputes with other "nice people" in their community. In a small town, the battle lines are quickly drawn. But frankly, does an economic boycott, or social castigation, outweigh our children's need for the basic education we know is their right and privilege? For most of us, a good education is all the heritage we can guarantee our children, and we cannot afford to stand by and see them robbed by our indifference and neglect. Our mountain children are just as bright, just as deserving, as any children in other parts of the state, the nation.

We are ready. WE must work together—really work, really give of ourselves, our time, our talents, to the advantage of our children. Please let us become better informed, let us unite in the P-T-A, let us attend the meetings, and learn to be courageous in the face of the great number of enormous tasks before us. We must not continue to quietly endure the dirty, unpainted classrooms, the poor teaching equipment, the broken sidewalks, the clay-mud playground, and most of all, we must support and respect the devoted and progressive teachers among those in education, whose low salaries are a reproach to us all.

It is truly an overwhelming prospect, but we must DEMAND a better education life for our children. It is, after all, the noblest work of all—forming a brighter prospect for their otherwise grim tomorrow.

"Somewhere, we must make a stand; Coward, take my coward's hand!"

Very truly yours,
Mary Kersey
Whitesburg, Ky.

Blames the educators

To the Editor:

Please discontinue your articles regarding education in Kentucky.

For your information, and I know from first hand experience in my travels over Letcher County, that our people here in Letcher County want no better schools than they have now.

Don't blame Kentucky's low in education to politics. Put it squarely where it belongs. Up on the shoulders of the educators themselves. Starting with the superintendent of public instruction, Dr. Robert Martin. So great is his interest in education for Letcher Countians that to my knowledge he has not spent one single day in Letcher County to see that Fleming or Stuart Robinson has a new high school or just what effort is being made by the present county superintendent toward getting one. Yet the great educator, Dr. Robert Martin, has an abundance of time to act as state campaign manager for Bert Combs, a candidate for Governor of Kentucky.

Second, if you will check the list of his employees, you will find nothing but defeated county school superintendents and fired principals and incompetents of the teaching profession in this department. I would like for just one school man to cite me one case where any action has ever been taken by the office of public instruction against any county school system, for violations of our school laws or ruled against any practice by any school superintendent no matter what they do.

To cite you another example of why Letcher Countians want no better schools—in my 30 years in this county only once have they put a person in the superintendent's office with any business experience to operate a million-dollar-a-year business and the business which this one man operated went broke.

To put a question to you and the people of the county another way, is there one operator of a small business any place in Letcher County that would have the present or past superintendents to operate their business?

If our educators are so interested in their lot, why were the teachers in the Whitesburg school system cautioned not to talk to the general public about the deplorable conditions that exist in the Whitesburg schools? Even a child could see where a savings of at least $50,000 a year could be made without reducing the effectiveness of our schools, and which would in 10 years pay for a modern high school at Fleming or Stuart Robinson. I am not even a high school graduate but even a nit wit can follow the above thinking.

Blackey group praised

To the Editor:

I take the privilege of writing you what I think of Kentucky children, their mothers and teachers. On last Friday,

Aug. 22, Mrs. Lundy Adams, one of the most charming women we have ever met, brought to us a group of children, the best looking, the best behaved and finest as a whole group of people we had ever seen.

I have handled tourists in Miami, Fla., before coming here and I have owned and run the Mountain Lake Lodge for 10 years. This lot of your home folks beat all I have ever seen. The driver of the bus that drove them here told me that he had been driving a bus for years and that this was the best behaved crowd he ever drove in his life. Also the restaurant where we sent them to eat breakfast said they had never seen such a well behaved group of children. All mothers in your part of Kentucky must be about perfect, for a child grows up the way he is started out at home. Just to think there was not one bad thing said or done while they were here.

Also I must mention besides Mrs. Adams the chaperones and teachers who did a wonderful job: Mr. Hubert Mack, Mrs. Gladys Hampton, Miss Irene Dixon, Miss Irene Campbell, and Mrs. Essie Collins.

My wife and I agree completely on what I have written, and you folks are among the finest.

Yours sincerely,
F. B. Bowman

We've had enough

To the Editor:

Flash floods from Heaven, taxes from Frankfort, promises from politicians and surveys by everybody. We have had about enough.

It is my personal opinion that we, the people of the mountains of Kentucky, deserve more consideration from Frankfort and Washington. Down through the years we have helped ourselves.

Our natural resources have been exploited, until we are in a position where we need something in return.

Most of our coal is gone; most of our timber is gone; and much of our inadequate highways we the citizens of Letcher County are still paying for. Why should about thirty-five cents of each one dollar we pay in taxes go into a sinking fund to pay for our so-called State Highways?

There are, I believe, three specific things the state and federal governments could do which would greatly assist us here in Letcher County and in Southeastern Kentucky.

First: Highway No. 15 should be rebuilt, which would give us a decent outlet down state.

Second: Dams should be built on the North Fork of the Kentucky River to control floods.

Third: The State should assume the county's road-bond indebtedness where the county built the roads with the understanding the state would help.

If our county had the thirty-five cents of each tax dollar, how much better school buildings we could have, and teacher's salaries be raised, or the twenty cents special road bond tax could be stricken off and our taxes reduced one-fifth.

Workers, employers should apply the golden rule

September 7, 1958

"JUSTICE IN DAILY WORK"

Scripture Lesson: Exodus 20:9-10; Ecclesiastes 9:10; Ephesians 4:28; Colossians 3:22-4:1.

By The Rev. John R. Howard

Now we are getting down to earth. Justice is to be sought in government, before civil courts, and among nations, but it is within your hand and heart that justice is to be sought first of all. It is as we come to "do unto others as we would have others do unto us," that we will turn our enmity and hatred into purposeful usefulness and "beat our swords into plow shares and our spears into pruning hooks and know war no more." Work is a great privilege and joy of man. To do an honest day's work for an honest day's pay brings joy to the heart of the worker and satisfaction to the mind of the employer. There is more to life than the pay check. The pay check is of importance, but is there not pay in perfection in the craftsman's work? The great rewards of life are not in dollars and cents. I delight in the story of the three workmen who were at work in the building of Westminster Abbey in London. To the question of the noted builder, Sir Christopher Wren, as to what they were doing, one worker replied: "I earn thirty shillings a week." A second replied: "I'm laying brick." The third worker replied, with a gleam of inspiration in eyes as he looked up from the brick that he was laying: "I'm building a great Cathedral. It's to be the finest in the world, designed by the noted builder, Sir Christopher Wren!"

Justice in daily work! It's the little things in life that count. Courtesy is said to be made up of little acts of love. How true! What a blessing it is to work with people who do an honest day's work, who are not always grumbling about their load, but who cheerfully take their shift. These usually are glad to lend a helping hand to a weaker brother on the job. "Come unto me, all ye that labor and that are heavy laden, and I will give you rest. Take my yoke upon you and learn of me, for I am weak and lowly in heart: and ye shall find rest for your souls. For my yoke is easy and my burden is light." (Matt. 11:28-30) "And whatsoever ye do, do it heartily, as to the Lord, and not unto men; knowing that of the Lord ye shall receive the reward of the inheritance: for ye serve the Lord Christ." (Col. 3:23, 24)

If there is a bubble in the clay, it will show up when the heat is turned on. The plate will crack when intense heat is applied. An honest daily task completed makes a tired but happy man. A good appetite, sound sleep, the peace of mind that comes from a clear conscience, these are rewards which far surpass the tangible rewards that come for one's physical or mental labors. But best of all are the Master's words: "Well done, good and faithful servant, thou hast been faithful in a few things, I will make thee ruler over many, enter thou into the joy of thy lord."

"If we are not faithful in that which is least, who will commit unto us the true riches." Satisfaction, contentment, and the joy of a clear conscience come from having done faithfully the tasks that have been ours. To be faithful in the little things of life enable us to appreciate and enjoy the greater things about us. We cannot sit enthralled over the rainbow in the sky if we are at the same time sitting on a tack. The tack may be in our hearts as well as in the chair. Always it is harder to rid the tack from our hearts and consciences than it is to remove the tack from our chair.

The word "accurate," like so many of our words (50-60%), is derived from Latin. The basic meaning comes from the word "curo," which means "I care." The word "curate" meaning priest, comes from this word. A priest is "one who cares." "Accurate," then means looking to the matter with the heart of one who cares. An honest day's work means that we will do the task at hand with the heart of one who cares.

When there is injustice in the daily work, either from the worker's standpoint, or from the employer's standpoint, then unhappiness results. The innocent suffer from the injustice of the dishonest day's work at our hand or at the hand of another. A man came sometime ago to think about setting up a shirt factory. While looking around he saw a great many men out on a strike and inquired about them. When he found the injustice of their position in asking an unreasonable day's wage for a day's work and their injustice in dealing with those who were set over them in their work, this man quietly disappeared. He did not want to invest a million dollars among men of unjust character. We need to be fair-minded in all of our dealings. The golden rule cannot be beat when it comes to setting up a rule of action, a rule for establishing justice in daily work.

How happy is the people when there is no complaining in the streets! When every one is busy, doing his task, the one to which the Lord has pointed him and her for that day, then every one is glad. The people of the world are like a factory, turning out saints in the looms of life, or fashioning men and women, fit only for destruction in a lake of fire. The righteousness of the saints is the fine linen that is being woven day by day and the character of the individual is being fashioned as the cloth is being woven in many days of honest work wherein justice is found.

By Roger W. Babson

Babson Park, Mass., Sept. 4. While stocks have been firming moderately in recent months, the trend in bond prices has been weaker. It must be remembered, however, that in bonds, the maturity—as well as price—must be given due consideration in determining yield.

Government Bonds

Government bonds are bought mostly by banks and insurance companies. Because the yield is so small and they are subject to taxation without benefit of any dividend credit, private investors as a rule do not make very heavy commitments in these issues. When they do buy governments, they usually look for very short maturities selling around par. However, elderly people often buy certain maturities of government bonds which are selling at a discount and which the (federal) government will accept at par upon death for estate taxes. Your broker can give you a list of the special issues which have this privilege.

Many investors buy government bonds only in time of war or other national emergency as a patriotic duty. But the large numbers who do wish governments primarily for safety, or for liquidity, usually buy the Savings Bonds (Series E and G). Most municipal and revenue bonds should be attractive for investors in high income brackets.

Corporate Bonds

Ordinarily, business firms issuing corporate bonds look to the life insurance companies for support. The life insurance companies periodically figure when (and in what amounts) they will need cash at a given future date to fulfill their underwriting obligations as indicated by actuarial tables. Their bond buying is pegged to these requirements. Life insurance companies are also heavy bond purchasers because the kind and number of stocks they can buy are restricted by law. Fire underwriters, however, are free to buy common stocks without restriction; but in practice they usually hold sizable quantities of high-grade corporate bonds.

As a rule, corporate bonds should be avoided by the ordinary investor when inflation is on the uptrend because the money thus invested will buy less when the bonds come due. The only corporate bonds I recommend at the moment for private investors are "convertibles." With these you can "have your cake and eat it too." If DEFLATION should come and stocks go down, you can forget the convertible feature and insist on payment in cash. If INFLATION comes and stocks go up, you can turn these bonds into stocks. Unfortunately, however, there are not many GOOD convertible bond issues available. Most of these sell at quite a premium.

Prices and Outlook

During the past year, the Dow-Jones corporate bond average fluctuated from a low of 84 in November 1957 to a high of 91 in June 1958; at the present time this index is 88. As to future price: This depends almost wholly on the price of money and the trend of general business. It is certainly not wise to buy bonds—even the highest grade—when your banker feels sure money rates will go higher.

However, it is a mistake to think that money rates ALONE will determine the trend of bond prices. It is true that bond prices are not usually so quickly responsive to general business trends as are stocks. But is it foolhardy to believe that bond prices will not or cannot be affected by sharp changes in the over-all business picture, no matter what the prevailing interest rate.

A Final Word of Advice

However attractive bonds may seem to you, don't build an investment reserve of long-term maturity bonds. Long-terms, even those of the very highest quality, are poor risks AT ANY TIME. A 1% rise in interest can wipe out a number of years' income on long-term bonds. Try to stick to short-term governments, good convertibles, and tax-exempts that you expect to hold to maturity. Before you invest your corporation's money in bonds, be sure you realize your Corporation must pay 52% of any profit to the federal government. There is no tax relief or "credit" as is the case with dividends you receive on stocks.

Before buying any bonds, consult your banker who will give you his frank appraisal of interest rates and business trends. Before buying stocks, consult an investment counselor. Any free advice about the stock or bond markets is usually worth just about what it costs you—nothing!

BROWNIE TROOP CELEBRATES BIRTHDAY

Brownie Troop No. 3 had a birthday party Saturday celebrating its second year of scouting.

Yellow and brown corsages, made by the girls with the instruction of Mrs. Paul Poloskey, were presented to the hostesses, Mrs. Gurtha Boatwright and Miss Cora Addington; leaders, Mrs. Walter Owens and Mrs. Roy Crawford Jr.; retiring leader Mrs. Kyle Campbell; troop committee chairman, Mrs.

Bruce Hammonds; and the following mothers, Mrs. Van Warax, Mrs. Jack Jenkins, Mrs. Allyn Judd and Mrs. Paul Poloskey.

After the flag ceremony, Mrs. Owens conducted a candlelight service around the birthday cake. Mrs. Hammonds presented Brownie pin-guards to the leaders and paid tribute to Mrs. Campbell for her year of service as co-leader.

The 17 Brownies were each presented a gold star representing a year's membership in the troop. Ten new Brownies, who will be in Mrs. James Frazier's troop, were guests at the party. Refreshments were served and games were played and the party ended with the girls forming the "magic circle."

Both Brownie troops held organizational meetings Tuesday. Troop No. 1, age 7, is under the direction of Mrs. Frazier. Troop No. 3, ages 8-9, has Mrs. Owens as its leader.

MRS. REX CHANEY

Miss Joyce Brown wed to Rex Chaney of Jenkins

Miss Joyce Yvonne Brown, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Royal A. Brown, 304 West Sun Street, Morehead, and Mr. Rex Chaney, son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Chaney, Jenkins. They were married at 3:30 o'clock Saturday, Aug. 2, at the Morehead Christian Church. Officiating at the double-ring ceremony was Rev. J. C. Raikes, pastor of the First Baptist Church, Morehead. White gladioli, arranged with ferns and palms with white tapers in wrought iron candelabra formed an arch before which the ceremony took place. Open church was observed.

A program of nuptial selections was presented by Miss Lucille Mayhall, vocalist, accompanied by Mrs. James Reynolds, organist.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a floor-length gown of embroidered tulle fashioned with a portrait neckline, fitted bodice, and long sleeves extending to a point over the hand. The skirt of billowing ruffles extended with a brush train. Her fingertip veil of imported illusion was held by an embroidered headpiece studded with tiny pearls. She carried a bouquet of gardenias and stephanotis.

Mrs. Larry Hillman of Covington, Ohio, served as matron of honor. She wore a waltz-length dress of yellow sheer nylon over taffeta with a draped neckline. The cumberbund of taffeta extended to a butterfly bow in the back. Her picture hat was of accordeon-pleated net. She carried a bouquet of white daisies mounted on a lace fan.

The bridesmaids, Miss Roberta Jones, Morehead, cousin of the bride, and rs. Jerry Riddle, Louisville, wore dresses styled like that of the honor attendant in white sheer nylon over yellow taffeta. Their picture hats were of white lace. They carried bouquets of white daisies arranged similar to that of the honor attendant.

Miss Diana Jones, cousin of the bride, served as junior bridesmaid. She wore a floor-length white and yellow dress styled like those of the bridesmaids. Her bouquet of daisies was a replica of that of the matron of honor.

Reece Chaney served as his brother's best man. Ushers were Messrs. Bill Jordan, Ray Hornback, Bob Welch and Wilgus Neace, cousin of the bridegroom.

A reception was held at the church after the wedding. Serving at the refreshment table were Mrs. Roy Caudill, Mrs. Jim Burchwell, sister of the bridegroom, and Miss Sara Glenn Lane.

Mrs. Chaney is a graduate of Breckinridge Training School and Morehead State College, where she was elected 1956 Homecoming Queen, Sweetheart Queen and Morehead's candidate for Queen of the Mountain Laurel Festival. She is past president of the Cosmopolitan Club and the Morehead Players. She is a member of Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities.

Mr. Chaney is a graduate of Breathitt High School and Morehead State College, where he was a member of the track team and Campus Club and was elected to Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities. He was a member of the basketball team and for the past year has been head basketball coach at Fleming-Neon High School.

Mr. and Mrs. Chaney are making their home in Jenkins, where Mr. Chaney is head basketball coach at Jenkins High School. Mrs. Chaney is teaching at Jenkins High School also.

Out-of-town guests at the wedding included Mrs. Bill Jordan, Neon; Mr. Buck Dawson, Kenova, W. Va.; Mr. Raymond Mullins, Jenkins; Mr. and Mrs. Roy Chaney, Ross Chaney and Reva Chaney, Jenkins; Mr. and Mrs. Jim Burchwell, Wilmore.

Methodist Church scene of Perry-McQueen vows

Miss Shirley Ann Perry became the bride of Dr. James Lee McQueen at 4 p.m. Saturday at the Methodist Church, Jenkins. The Rev. Hillary Finch officiated at the ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. T. M. Perry, Jenkins. Mr. and Mrs. J. M. McQueen, Washington, D. C., are the bridegroom's parents.

Vows were said under a white arch entwined with southern smilax. The church was further decorated by organ fern, baskets of white gladioli and yellow fuji mums and candelabras holding white candles. Yellow fuji mums and white satin ribbons marked the pews.

A floor-length gown of embroidered organza and nylon tulle was worn by the bride. It was fashioned with a scalloped neckline, bustle back and the full skirt had four-tiers of embroidered organza and tulle. Her crown of lace, which was embroidered with seed pearls and sequins, was attached to a fingertip veil of imported illusion and edged in French lace encrusted with a design of sequins. She wore lace mitts and carried an arm bouquet of anthurium lilies.

Mrs. John Farmer, Columbia, Mo., was the matron of honor. Miss Micki Looney, Jenkins, was maid of honor and Miss Linda Lou Lyons, Springfield, Ill., and Miss Mabel Pollitt, Louisville, were bridesmaids. They wore floor-length emerald green taffeta dresses, styled with roll collars and balloon backs. Their hats were emerald green crushed net and they carried cascade bouquets of yellow fuji mums.

The bride's little Dancing Dolls, her former dance students, lighted the candles. They were Miss Glenda Mullins, Miss Pamela Minor, Miss Brenda Burkovich and Miss Sharron Collins, all of Jenkins. The girls wore dresses of white organza and emerald green headbands trimmed with sequins and gold pompon chrysanthemums.

The groom's nieces, Miss Carol and Miss Karen Cline, were the flower girls. They wore floor-length taffeta dresses of Nile green and headbands trimmed with gold pompons.

The bride's mother wore a dress of ashes of roses lace over taffeta, matching accessories and a white orchid. A gold silk sheath dress, beige and brown accessories and bronze baby orchids were worn by the mother of the bridegroom.

Dr. Bruce Ratcliff of Springfield, Mo., was the best man and Jack Perry, brother of the bride, Louisville; Garland Lindsey, Harrisburg, Pa.; and John Cline, brother-in-law of the bridegroom, Sedan, Kas., were the ushers.

MRS. JAMES LEE MCQUEEN

Memories and mountains surround retired police judge

By Barbara Stambaugh

One of the true old Southern gentlemen, Judge John Herbert Abbott has been tipping his hat to Jenkins ladies for nearly half a century.

From his birth in Louisa in 1875, this student of law feels he has had a love for the mountains and he knows he has never lost that love. He answered the call of the tall timber by going to work for the Standard Lumber Company as a logger and knew everyone on all the tributaries of the Big Sandy.

He says he had to defend his mountain background when he was in the Spanish-American War. The lessons he took from an old professional boxer came in handy when he and the other boys were called "Hillbillies." After a few bouts, he says, no one referred to their mountain origin again. Judge Abbott was at both Santa Ana and Harden, Cuba, for several months and learned a little Spanish during his stay. He says he developed stomach trouble in Cuba as the result of poor food and bad conditions and has had it since.

He decided to settle down in the valley of Jenkins in 1911 and opened up and shipped the first car of coal from No. 3 Mines. By that time, however, he was an old hand at mining—when he was only 16 he worked at Peach Orchard, where the first coal in the Big Sandy was shipped.

Back in Jenkins' infancy, Judge Abbott said, he had to wear high-topped boots to get up town. By getting to town, however, he met and married Easter Lilly Clere, who was then principal of Dunham School, 34 years ago. They have two daughters, Agnes, now Mrs. Fred See of Chicago, Ill.; and Evelyn, now Mrs. Dave Sullivan of Santa Ana, Calif.; his two sons, James A. and David Raleigh, are both deceased.

In 1929 he began his career as police judge and, re-elected seven times, held the office until 1956. Before he even began logging, he was interested in politics and law. Back in Louisa he studied the law books of a retired congressman, John M. Rice. Although he never finished the course under Rice, he has never stopped studying.

He tells this story of how he was taught his most important political lesson. Once, after hearing him argue with two politicians in Louisa, his father called him aside and told him how impressed he was that he remembered everything he read in their daily paper, the Cincinnati Post-Gazette (R). He added, however, that from then on they would also take the Louisville Courier-Journal (D.), so that he would know the other side of a question. From then on, "Uncle John" says he always looked at both sides of an issue before making a decision.

He says he became an independent as a political move in 1933, when John L. Lewis and Sam Caddy formed the non-partisan league. He felt that by

BRIDAL PARTY ENTERTAINED

Miss Micki Looney entertained the Perry-McQueen wedding party Friday night with a party at her home. Those present were Dr. and Mrs. Bruce Ratcliff, Sedan, Kan.; Mrs. John Farmer, Columbia, Mo.; Miss Linda Lou Lyons, Springfield, Ill.; Miss Mabel Pollitt, Louisville; Jimmy Creech, Jack Perry, Miss Parky Kincer, Larry Looney, the bride-elect, Miss Shirley Perry and the bridegroom-elect, Dr. James Lee McQueen.

Phillip Davidson, C. A. Gray, Ronnie Horn, Pud Shubert and Buddy Gambill left Tuesday to be inducted into the service.

Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Hammonds of Grenada, Miss., visited Mr. and Mrs. George Fugate over the weekend. Mrs. Hammonds is a sister of Mrs. Fugate and the Hammonds are former residents of Jenkins. She taught in the Jenkins Schools and he was a clerk in the mine office.

Mr. and Mrs. Dave Zeger and family visited in Charleston, W. Va., over the weekend.

Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Farrinash of Birmingham, Ala., were guests of the O. O. Parkers for several days.

Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Hensley and family had Miss Virginia Lee Adams, Paintsville, as house guest last weekend and Mr. and Mrs. John Burton, Paintsville, and Mr. and Mrs. Warren Harris and sons George Cecil and Kimmy of Pikeville as weekend guests.

Miss Lou Wilfong, Jenkins, sang wedding music. She was accompanied by Mrs. Velma Sewell of Jenkins, organist.

Assisting with the reception, which was at the home of the bride, were Mrs. O. O. Parks, Mrs. H. L. Burpo, Mrs. S. J. Chweing, Mrs. A. C. Dittick, Mrs. Tony Dann, Mrs. James Wilson, Mrs. Richard Storey and Mrs. J. W. Bell.

A white color theme was carried out at the reception by the four-tiered wedding cake, the floral arrangement of white fugi moms, which was under glass and a white open bell filled with white pompons and mums. Silver candelabras held white candles.

The bride chose a black suit-dress, matching accessories and a white orchid for travel. After a wedding trip to the Pocono Mountains in Pennsylvania, the couple will be at home at 3607 Walsh Street, Jacksonville, Fla. The bride is a graduate of Christian College, Columbia, Mo., and was a senior at U. K. The bridegroom is a graduate of the University of Missouri.

A cynical Mamie Van Doren accuses Russ Tamblyn of dating his high school teacher, Jan Sterling (center), in order to better his grades. The scene is from the controversial teen-age drama, "High School Confidential!" Albert Zugsmith Production for MGM. Also in the cast are John Drew Barrymore, with guest stars Jerry Lee Lewis, Ray Anthony, Jackie Coogan, Charles Chaplin, Jr., and Diana Jergens.

Playing Thursday, Friday and Saturday at Isaac's Alene Theater in Whitesburg.

Whitesburg's Lloyd Hodge is slated to figure heavily in the grid activities of the University of Kentucky as the Wildcats enter what promises to be a winning season. Hodge, 5'10", 197-pound sophomore student at U. K., will be seen playing in the halfback position for the Wildcats. Earl Boardman, veteran Kentucky sportscaster, again this year will team up with All-American Wah Wah Jones on the Ashland Aetna Oil Sports Network, presenting listeners an accurate, fast moving word picture, plus on the scene color of every University of Kentucky football game. The Wildcat day games will be broadcast in this area over station WTCW, again part of the state wide Ashland Aetna Oil Sports Network.

would have a better chance to be re-elected on his merits as judge.

"Uncle John" says he feels Jenkins is one of the most law-abiding towns in the state. Judge when whisky was legal in town, he says he knows from experience that the money gained from the sale of whisky can never compensate the town for the damage it does.

While judge, "Uncle John" always believed in "giving a man a chance." His harsher sentences were always a last resort and he always tried to give a little advice and counseling along with his sentences, he said.

His experiences with juvenile cases are the closest to his heart. He feels kindness has been his most effective tool. He thinks each case is different and that the law gives a judge the privilege to use his judgment. He doesn't feel imprisonment is a solution and always tried to first reason with juveniles, counseled them and placed them on probation when possible. Tears came in his eyes when he reflected that over half of his Christmas cards come from former delinquents.

His opinion on the current question of "to secede or not to secede," is that the proper men to represent this area should be elected in the first place. He feels it is a bad reflection on voters of the area that they cannot send effective men to the legislature who can make our problems heard.

"Uncle John" has been in failing health for some time but years of habit cannot be erased, and he still manages to get to police court to see how things are getting along. He says he knows he could have been better off financially if he had stayed in the timber or mining business but that he could never regret his years as judge. He says monetary compensations could never compare to the satisfaction he has gotten from his years on the bench.

He feels he has gotten his philosophy of life from his Bible which he says he has almost worn out. "I'm not worried about the future," "Uncle John" says, as he sits out in the sun, surrounded by his beloved mountains and his memories.
